

Sam is playing his favourite online game. A loot box comes up and it is free to open. Sam clicks on the box and gets a great power up for the game.

Sam then finds another loot box which needs in-game currency to open. Sam opens it and gets a new skin for the main character.

When Sam is next playing the game a loot box appears but this one needs real money to open it. Sam has some pocket money to use in the game.

One of the things the box might contain is the rest of the skin for the main character but there is a chance the box may contain something that Sam already has.